Teach me, Oh Lord, to humble myself!

Humility is a great a virtue and opposite of the capital sin of pride. Pride can hurt us in many ways other than just causing us some occasional humiliation or embarrassment. It also stands in the way of our relationship with God and even with others. In several parables Jesus extols the virtue humility and teaches His audience to be at the service of others. In today's gospel He discourages the guests looking for "places of honor." The lesson is to be humble and never to assume to be more important among others or assume you should get the best seat.

If you ever consider yourself very fortunate, remember some people have helped you to reach your goal. Family, relatives, friends, co worker and even your enemies have all helped to shape your life. Your success or greatness didn't just happen overnight.

Alex Haley who wrote the novel Roots and who was responsible for the highly successful TV series in the 70's said he has in his office a picture of a turtle sitting on a fence post. He said when he looks at it he remembers a lesson taught to him by a friend who said: "if you see a turtle sitting on top of fence post, you know he didn't get there by himself, he had some help getting there." Haley said "anytime I start thinking isn't it wonderful the thing I have done, I look at the picture of this turtle and I see myself and I remember I didn't get where I am without a lot of help from others."

If God has blessed you, and many people have helped you to accomplish a lot of things in your life, never forget to humble yourself, be kind, be compassionate and help others who are not as fortunate as you.

- Fr. Abuchi

Sisters of Mary Immaculate of Nyeri

The community of the Sisters of Mary Immaculate of Nyeri is a women religious community that was founded in Kenya by Bishop Filipo Perlo and three founding members in 1918. In founding the congregation, Bishop Perlo, an Italian missionary, believed that anyone who would become part of the new community would walk in the footsteps of Jesus Christ in caring for the poor, the most needy and those who were suffering. Today, more than 400 sisters actively serve in teaching, healthcare, pastoral, and a variety of social ministries in Kenya, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia, Italy and in the United States. The sisters currently staff and provide administration for ten primary and three orphanages, three hospitals and five clinics in the region. The sisters also provide vocational training through three skill-development centers. Thanks for helping us to continue with this mission through your support.
